“DEVELOPING WOMEN LEADERSHIP:

A ROADMAP TO SUCCESS”

The Context

This programme address the SDG 5- Gender Equality goal of UNGCNI by developing and empowering women to become better leaders, hence ensuring their full and effective participation and equal opportunities for leadership at all levels of decision making in corporate and public life.

There are several reasons to strive for gender diversity in companies: customer empathy, taking advantage of talent (not just half), and basic fairness, to name a few. New research by EY and Peterson Institute for International Economics, a Washington DC based think tank data clearly shows that increasing the percentage of women in top position from 0 to 30 per cent is associated with 15 per cent jump in profits. The bigger the talent pool, the more make it to the top. And once at the top, women lift the bottom line.

A landmark McKinsey Global Institute report also finds that $ 12 trillion could be added to global GDP by 2025 if the gender gap is narrowed. Given higher returns that gender diversity is expected to bring, it is better to invest now since winners will pull further ahead and laggards will fall further behind.

Unique Challenges & Opportunities for Women at the Workplace

Although women make 40 percent of global work force, they hold only 24 per cent of senior management roles around the world - a figure that has not changed significantly over the past decade. Out of chief executive officers of S&P 500 firms, only about 5 per cent are women. Why aren't more talented women moving up? Researchers have pointed to an array of reasons, from explicit discrimination for promotion process, that quietly favors men, but one of the more perplexing is that women themselves aren't as likely as men to put themselves for leadership roles through promotions, job transfers and high profile assignments.

Women's strengths – including the ability to collaborate and to build trust and relationships – are now seen as vital to organizations operating in volatile environments. This program for "Developing Women Leadership - Roadmap to Success" addresses to this vital transition by analyzing this glass barrier for women executives and developing competencies to bridge the gap. This is an extraordinary and un-conventional program to help established and emerging women executives become extraordinary leaders.

Consider investing two days of your women executive's professional life to enhance their management skills, so as to advance their career and enhance profits of your company.

Program Content

The Developing Women Leadership - A Roadmap to Success Program builds on participants' strengths and highlights the specific behaviors that are critical in effective leadership. Integrated program sessions promote the mindset and competencies necessary to transform participants from effective colleagues and bosses to successful and valuable leaders – who return to their organizations with a zeal to lead at the next level.

The Developing Women Leadership module combines the latest leadership models with recent thinking on how adults learn and change. Topics covered in this unique blend of frameworks, experiential exercises, self-assessment and group work include the following:

- Building Self Awareness - Barriers and Strengths
- Understanding and Assessing Leadership Traits
- Have the Mindset of a Leader or think like a Leader
- Communicating Powerfully
- Negotiating Win Wins
- Leadership Presence - Creating your own "Brand"
- Collaborating and Team Work
- Network to Increase your Net Worth
- Managing Work-Life Balance

Participants of this Unique Developing Women Leadership Program shall Gain:

- An increased understanding of personal strengths and barriers for being a successful and authentic leader;
- A self-created action plan to leverage their strengths and address existing barriers;
- A vision of their authentic leadership;
- A better understanding of systemic barriers to women's achievement, and powerful strategies for change;
- Increased ability to negotiate their own success and create value for the organization;
- Ways to manage gender bias challenges;
- Increased skill in having constructive conversation where actions are consistent with their values and aspirations, especially in high stakes situations;
- Interactions with women role models to experience the varied ways woman practice leadership;
- A lasting network of women leaders

Methodology

The workshop will be highly interactive and dynamic incorporating group activities to enhance personal learning in a comprehensive results-based approach to professional capacity building.

Facilitators will provide a dynamic learning environment, balancing both leadership theory, practical exercises, case studies, video recordings, self-assessments, group discussions and facilitated dialogues. The workshop will aim to inspire by including interventions and remarks from highly motivational women in the field, through an armchair discussion.
